LOCAL ORIENTATION

History: Barcelona layers Roman Barcino, medieval maritime power, Catalan civic identity, 19th-century Eixample expansion, Modernisme, civil-war memory, Olympic-era waterfront transformation, and contemporary design/tourism pressure.

Architecture: The contrast is the point: Gothic Quarter stone lanes, Cerda's gridded Eixample, Gaudi's organic Modernisme, Domenech i Montaner's tile-and-glass interiors, Montjuic civic landscapes, and redeveloped waterfront.

Culture: Barcelona is intense and popular, so book one big anchor and leave room for neighborhoods. It is also strongly Catalan: language, food, civic design, music, and Modernisme matter.

Food scene: Expect tapas, seafood, markets, pa amb tomaquet, rice dishes, vermut, natural wine, and vegetarian-friendly modern cafes. For Michelle, markets, seafood/shellfish, vegetable tapas, rice, pasta, and flexible small plates are useful.
